Study Abroad Approval Procedures for External Programs

To receive credit for courses taken on an external study abroad program, students are required to complete Temple's External Program Approval form, which includes seeking permission from an advisor in Education Abroad, having any anticipated courses evaluated and approved by appropriate academic departments, and receiving academic approval from their Temple school/college academic advising office. To explore external program opportunities, or to initiate the approval process, students should contact or visit Education Abroad (http://www.temple.edu/studyabroad).

Students should discuss their study abroad plans with their academic advisor. Permission to study abroad is rescinded if the student is placed on academic warning or probation. As with all courses accepted in transfer, only a grade of C- or higher is acceptable.
