MKTG 5104. Marketing Strategy. 3 Credit Hours.
Marketing Strategy provides an executive viewpoint of integrated marketing concepts, including: market analysis, segmentation, targeting, and positioning, and the 4Ps (product, price, promotion, and place). Students learn to apply both strategic and tactical elements of these marketing concepts, integrate these into financial models, and make decisions in realistic environments in order to maximize long term firm value. This course emphasizes skills and experiences in analyzing a business’ situation and formulating, implementing, and monitoring marketing strategy in a competitive environment. In particular, students will be able to select segments in which to compete, develop meaningful points of differentiation and positioning statements, think critically about product design, set prices in a variety of situations, deal with distribution and channel issues, and understand promotion strategies. There is a heavy emphasis on the link between marketing decisions and financial outcomes, as well as on communicating results of analysis to upper management. Note: Prior to fall 2017, the course title was “Managerial Decision Strategies in Marketing”.

MKTG 5109. Mobile Marketing and Communications. 3 Credit Hours.
Mobile devices are becoming the main means of communication and have expanded beyond talking, texting, emailing, video streaming/sharing and surfing the web. Mobile now serves as an intimate, transactional and social connector to consumers - making it a highly desirable communication vehicle for marketers. In this course, students develop a strong knowledge of mobile marketing and communications and apply this new knowledge in the development of a mobile marketing communications plan. Marketing and communication strategies/plans are developed with mobile devices in mind first followed by all other communication vehicles i.e. OOH, direct mail, TV, radio, social, search, print, etc.

MKTG 5111. Customer Data Analytics. 3 Credit Hours.
This course introduces students to methods for analyzing data residing in firms’ customer databases. It covers methods for creating profiles of customer segments based on their profitability to the firm, estimate individual customers’ lifetime values, and demonstrate how this technique has been used by different organizations. The course also reviews statistical concepts and introduces and uses specialized statistical software, which will be used to conduct a variety of marketing analyses using actual customer databases. Students will acquire skills to construct traditional RFM (recency/frequency/monetary) analyses to maximize response to marketing campaigns. Using these traditional techniques as a foundation, students develop/build more sophisticated models to predict customer response, such as predicting whether a customer will respond to a particular marketing offer (e.g. a direct marketing, mobile marketing, direct mail, etc.). In addition, students construct more advanced models (e.g. logit models, CHAID) to maximize response to marketing campaigns and to compare the effectiveness of alternative models.

MKTG 5114. Digital and Interactive Marketing Strategy. 3 Credit Hours.
Digital and interactive technologies have become an integral component of daily life for many firms and consumers. Although digital and interactive marketing is an important part of business strategy, the dynamic nature of technology and consumer culture raises strategic and social challenges. This course examines the theories and concepts underlying the use of information and communication technology by firms and consumers, and challenges students to critique and utilize digital tools and social media, including Twitter, Facebook, online reviews, blogs, paid search, digital advertising, and online promotions in achieving marketing objectives. The course examines the theory of digital marketing in both business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) markets.
