The Film and Media Arts (FMA) Program focuses on the development of creative expression and technical skills in film, video, audio, digital media, and new technologies, and the theoretical understanding of media and culture. The program recognizes and explores the creative tension between individual expression and the social, political, and economic forces that shape culture at large through the creation and study of film, video, and new media.

Students are trained in developing meaningful content as well as craft, theory, and practice. In learning independent and mainstream approaches to production and theory, graduates will be prepared to develop their own independent productions and to assume a creative role in the motion picture, television and media industries.

FMA faculty have received the Oscar, Emmy, Guggenheim, Rockefeller, NEA, Fulbright, Sundance and international film awards and are authors of some of the important texts in the field. The department also brings in guest media makers and visiting professors from diverse backgrounds for special lectures and workshops. Students may select elective courses from throughout the university, including in such areas as creative writing, theater and fine arts. A highly-recognized graduate program offers undergraduates numerous opportunities to work on advanced productions and participate in advanced research, exhibition and creative work in the field.

Los Angeles Study-Away Program

The Film and Media Arts Department offers a department-run study-away academic and internship program in Los Angeles every semester.

Because it is a more structured curriculum than the other sequences, students in the BFA programs who wish to go to Los Angeles should plan to do so during the summer semester or, after careful planning ahead, to go during the fall semester of their junior year. A sample curriculum grid is included on the BFA page (http://bulletin.temple.edu/undergraduate/theater-film-media-arts/film-media-arts/bfa-film-media-arts-concentration-directing/#academicplantext) that demonstrates how a BFA student can go to Los Angeles during the fall of her/his junior year and still complete the BFA in four years.

Other Internships and Special Programs

Beyond that, FMA has an extensive internship program throughout the year in Philadelphia. Additionally, many organizations in New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Washington, D.C. provide regular opportunities for student professional internships. Temple University offers Temple-run special programs for study and research in Rome and Tokyo.

Degree Offerings

The Film and Media Arts department offers both the BFA and BA degrees, as well as a minor in Screen Studies.

Initially students declare either the Film and Media Arts Major or the Film and Media Arts Major with a Screen Studies Concentration. In the spring of their sophomore year (60 credits), students may apply to enter one of the upper-level BFA programs with Concentrations in Media Arts, Directing and Screenwriting or one of three upper level BA concentrations: Cinematography, Producing, or Post-Production (see below).

To Apply for a BFA in Film and Media Arts with Concentrations in Directing, Media Arts or Screenwriting

To be considered, students need to complete 60 credits by the end of their sophomore year, earn an average of 3.0 in six foundational and intermediate courses (see each program page for details), submit a BFA application to the department, and provide a portfolio. The BFA application must be submitted to the department no later than the deadline announced on the Film and Media Studies Undergraduate Listserv in the spring semester in which the student reaches sixty credits. Students with less than an average of 3.0 in the six courses or who have only completed five of the six courses may petition the department for admission to one of the BFA concentrations. (See concentration faculty advisor.) Students who were not admitted to one of the BFA concentrations can continue in the BA in Film and Media Arts or the BA in Film and Media Arts with a Concentration in Screen Studies or apply for one of the three BA production concentrations.

To Apply for a BA in Film and Media Arts with Concentrations in Cinematography, Producing or Post-Production

To be considered, students need to complete 60 credits by the end of their sophomore year, earn an average of 3.0 in six foundational and intermediate courses (see each program page for details), submit a BA with Concentration application to the department, and provide a portfolio. The BA with Concentration application must be submitted to the department no later than the deadline announced on the Film and Media Studies Undergraduate Listserv in the spring semester in which the student reaches sixty credits. If a student has less than an average of 3.0 in these courses, the student may petition the department for admission into one of the three upper level concentrations or choose to remain in their initial program -- either the BA in Film and Media Arts or the BA in Film and Media Arts with a Concentration in Screen Studies.

Transfer Students Applying to the BFA in Film and Media Arts with Concentrations in Directing, Media Arts or Screenwriting, or the BA in Film and Media Arts with Concentrations in Cinematography, Producing or Post-Production

All internal and external transfer students who have transferred no equivalent FMA courses may apply to the BFA or the BA with Production Concentration in their second year as a Film and Media Arts student, provided they have completed all application requirements and a creative portfolio. Transfer students who have courses equivalent to the FMA core will be evaluated on a case by case basis and may be able to apply for the BFA or the BA with Production Concentration in their first year as a Film and Media Arts student. Please see advisor for a long term academic plan. All transfer students should be aware that completing either the BFA or the BA with Production Concentration may extend their time at Temple.

Exceptional cases for direct admission to the BFA or BA with Production Concentrations will be evaluated on a case by case basis by the Concentration Faculty Advisor.

Minor in Screen Studies

Students from across the university may enroll in the Film and Media Arts’ Minor in Screen Studies here.

Foundation Courses

Students will take Foundation Courses appropriate to the chosen concentration. However, students who choose to switch to another concentration will need to meet with the faculty advisor to discuss how the foundation courses previously completed can apply to the student's new concentration.

Courses

FMA 0843. Race & Ethnicity in American Cinema. 3 Credit Hours.
Movies have played a central role in how we understand race, racial categories, and ethnic cultural identities. We will study Hollywood's evolving portrayal of African-Americans, Asian-Americans and ethnic groups like Latinos and Italian-Americans. From Edison's early films, through "Birth of a Nation," and to the present, commercial cinema has denigrated Americans of color and stereotyped its ethnic groups. How are stereotypes built up on century-old cinematic traditions and how do they function today? What self-images have minority filmmakers presented as an alternative to mainstream views? In addition to looking at the critiques, we look at more positive aspects of ethnic and racial images and examine the ways that these images speak to the history of the nation as a whole. NOTE: This course fulfills the Race & Diversity (GD) requirement for students under GenEd and Studies in Race (RS) for students under Core. Students cannot receive credit for this course if they have successfully completed FMA 0943.

Course Attributes: GD

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 0869. Imaginary Cities. 3 Credit Hours.
This course takes students to cities around the world, and across time, examining how national cinemas have richly depicted and interpreted urban life during the last hundred years. We will study both screen images as well as the business structure that produces them and the audiences that view them. The urban focus of the course is international, including Tokyo, London and Rome, but the "home" setting is Philadelphia itself. NOTE: This course fulfills the World Society (GG) requirement for students under GenEd and International Studies (IS) for students under Core. Students cannot receive credit for this course if they have successfully completed FMA 0969.

Course Attributes: GG

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 0943. Honors Race & Ethnicity in American Cinema. 3 Credit Hours.

FMA 1141. Media Arts I. 4 Credit Hours.
An introductory course in media arts which examines the history, theory and practice of image making, sound production, and new technologies. Students will explore both hands-on production processes and theoretical foundations of film, video, and audio in a range of technologies including digital video and photographic formats, studio, and computerized digital settings. Coursework will emphasize individual students' rigorous exploration of creative, personal visions, along with mainstream applications. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA Chair required for non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.
FMA 1142. Media Arts II. 4 Credit Hours.
A continuation of media arts theory and practice with an increased emphasis on aesthetics, genres, writing, and project design. Assigned production projects and readings include documentary, fictional, and experimental formats. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA Chair required for non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1141|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 1143. Media Arts Combined. 4 Credit Hours.
An accelerated introductory course in media arts production and theory, which examines image making, sound, and new technology for those students who already have a production background. The course will further develop hands-on production processes, while relating them to the theoretical and expressive foundations of media arts. Course work will include production projects, readings and written assignments. NOTE: This course is for Honors candidates or FMA transfer students only. FMA 1143 (0110) counts in place of FMA 1141 (0100) and FMA 1142 (0101).

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 1144. Media Arts for Non-Production Majors. 4 Credit Hours.
This course introduces basic media arts production to non-production majors. The focus will be on developing technical and conceptual skills in a manner that will enhance the student's understanding of the medium firsthand. This practical experience will provide a deeper understanding of the close relationship between media theory and media practice. This course will explore the aesthetics and mechanics of shooting digital video, the importance of sound and how to record and mix it, and how to develop a project from concept to final cut. Course work will include classical theoretical readings and written assignments, which will address a range of narrative, documentary and experimental approaches to moving the image. The class will also offer an historical and theoretical context in which to think about technique and form, and general media literacy. The projects will cover the basic stages of short video production, diverse visual strategies, and how to apply them in several camera and sound exercises, short production exercises, and one final project that grows out of one or more theoretical and formal approaches we explored during the semester. A fundamental premise of the course is that we are exploring the moving image as an art form: an intellectual process with creative choices.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 1171. Media & Culture. 3 Credit Hours.
An overview of cultural production, distribution, and reception explored through lectures, readings, and screenings. Equally oriented towards practical concerns such as the economics of the arts and the mass media, and theoretical debates on the social, political, economic and aesthetic forces that shape culture.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 1172. Introduction to Film and Video Analysis. 3 Credit Hours.
This course will provide students with a conceptual and theoretical tools to analyze film, television, and video. Screenings, lectures, and readings will emphasize critical analysis, form, and content.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 1451. Survey of New Media. 3 Credit Hours.
An introduction to the history, theory and aesthetics of digital and networked media arts. This course explores critical perspectives on how new technologies have shaped our world, as well as aesthetic and interactional strategies for alternative ways of seeing, understanding and reconfiguring our world via digital media. The course includes theoretical and creative readings, screenings and interactive exercises, as well as written responses through blogging and a paper. NOTE: This course is open to all students in the School of Communications & Theater, and to other students by permission of the instructor.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2171. Navigating the Freelance World. 3 Credit Hours.
This undergraduate course focuses on how to thrive in the post-industrial economy, or what is known colloquially as the gig economy. This is a world in which many are free agents, making a living by exercising imagination and talent, and paid work is often intermittent and project-based. This is very different from the world in which our parents lived, worked and raised families. This course is intended to prepare undergraduates about to embark on freelance careers in this new world.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.
FMA 2241. Filmmaking. 4 Credit Hours.
Intensive instruction and practice with the tools and concepts of recording and structuring motion pictures in 16mm film and digital media. Coursework will consist of individual and collaborative film exercises and projects. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA Chair required for non-majors.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Fields of study: Film and Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2242. Videography. 4 Credit Hours.
Intensive instruction and practice with the tools of recording and structuring video. Coursework will consist of individual and group exercises and projects conducted in the studio and in the field. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA chair required for non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2243. Audio: Production and Aesthetics. 4 Credit Hours.
An introduction to audio production and audio as a form of aesthetic expression. Students will explore theoretical concepts as they use digital audio recording and editing systems to complete projects. Coursework will consist of lectures, hands-on instruction, and discussion.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2244. Still Photography for Filmmakers. 4 Credit Hours.
Using a single lens reflex camera, the student will learn technical and aesthetic considerations regarding natural and artificial light, exposure, shutter speeds, f/stops, framing, composition, lens selection and how these factors affect perspective and depth of field. The course will relate concepts in still photography to parallel practices in motion pictures.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2245. Video Production for Non-Production Majors. 1 Credit Hour.
This supplemental, one credit course is geared towards students with no background in film and video production. It is designed to be taken in conjunction with FMA 3247 and to provide non-FMA majors sufficient training in video production for FMA 3247. Students will study and practice both field and studio production skills (camera, lighting, sound recording), non-linear editing, sound editing and mixing, as well as different modes of filmmaking such as documentary, fiction, experimental, notebooks, diaries, and essay films. It cannot be taken for credit by FMA majors.

Field of Study Restrictions: May not be enrolled in one of the following Majors: Film and Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.
FMA 2396. Screenwriting I. 4 Credit Hours.
Seminar and workshop exploring various approaches to fiction and nonfiction media writing. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA chair required for non-majors. Prior to Spring 2009, the course title was “Writing for Media.”

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Majors: Film and Media Arts.

Course Attributes: WI

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2451. Experimental Video and Multi-Media. 4 Credit Hours.
Intensive laboratory and field experience exploring personal, aesthetic, and social applications of video utilizing digital camcorders, editing, and multi-media facilities. This course includes regularly scheduled screenings of significant experimental video and multimedia projects.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2452. Web Art & Design. 4 Credit Hours.
In this production course, students learn how to conceptualize and produce digital media works on the web, using both Web 2.0 applications and more nuts & bolts technical means. The course will explore new aesthetic forms of web-based narrative, imaging and interaction. Through screenings, talks, readings and guest lectures, the course will consider issues of design, mixed reality media works, social media, locative media, virtual world-building. Students will receive a solid grounding in website construction and content development for the web.

Class Restrictions: May not be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Freshman 0 to 29 Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2471. New Media Colloquium. 1 Credit Hour.
A seminar for New Media students, which will host guests from the New Media professions and arts. The course will critique student and professional work and focus on a topic related to this discipline. Class will seek to integrate student's work across the New Media concentration.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1141|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
AND ((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
FMA 2551. Editing Film and Video. 4 Credit Hours.
Techniques, practices, equipment, procedures, and theories involved in achieving structure in film and video.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 2670. Topics in Film Study. 4 Credit Hours.
An intermediate exploratory seminar in film study. Topics may include: the creative process, film and politics, directors, genres, and periods. NOTE: Open to FMA majors and non-majors.

Class Restrictions: May not be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Freshman 0 to 29 Credits.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 2671. Film Noir. 3 Credit Hours.
This course examines the concept of “Film Noir” in its cultural context using a body of films (literature, photography, art, music) to analyze predominant themes and the history of the concept in film scholarship. Directors, producers and writers of Noir; the industrial process by which these films were produced, marketed and exhibited; and a variety of cultural/historical issues (e.g. race, gender, class, urban development, national morale) will be examined. The first part of the class will focus on ”Classic” Noir (1940-60), while the second will concentrate on the evolution of Noir, scrutinizing 1960-contemporary films that have appropriated Film Noir characteristics, paying particular attention to international examples. NOTE: Open to FMA majors and non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2672. Film Comedy. 4 Credit Hours.
This course will examine American Comedy, with a particular focus on several significant directors/producers: Harold Lloyd, Preston Sturges, Frank Tashlin, Woody Allen. We will approach this class in equal parts as a directors study, a genre study, an American culture study. Some of the questions we'll address are: How does comedy function/work? What personal styles emerge from the genre? Are these films and their critical concerns reflective of larger patterns and tendencies in American life? NOTE: Open to FMA majors and non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2673. Independent Film/Video. 4 Credit Hours.
Lectures, screenings and critical assignments will survey and analyze significant narrative, documentary and experimental works that challenge the assumptions and practices of mainstream media.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2674. History of Photography. 4 Credit Hours.
An examination of the history and aesthetics of fine art, documentary and commercial photography within their cultural contexts. The course will cover the works of major photographers and will relate historical and contemporary concepts in still photography to parallel practices in motion pictures.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2675. Film History I (1895-1950). 4 Credit Hours.
This screening-intensive course surveys the broad trends in the development of cinema as an art and as an industry. Spanning from the beginning of cinema to the immediate post-World War II years, it will ask how a popular art arose and how cinema finds its expression either with or against its commercial nature. Topics to include the Hollywood studio system, European national and international cinema traditions, the avant-garde, the role of documentary and propaganda, and the role of women in the film industry.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.
FMA 2676. Film History II (1950-Present). 3 Credit Hours.
This screening-intensive course surveys the broad trends in the development of cinema as an art and as an industry. Spanning from 1950 to the present, it will particularly examine how notions of film art and social protest defined national cinemas, including American film, against the traditional Hollywood studio film. Topics to include the decline of the studio system, the international art film, the New Hollywood, oppositional countercinema, independent cinema, and transnational and global exchange of cinematic style and language.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 2678. History of Experimental Film and Video Art. 4 Credit Hours.
This course surveys major movements, artists, and works made outside the traditions of fiction and documentary filmmaking. It will chart experimental film's relation to the avant-garde art movements and cultural upheavals of the mid-20th century. In addition to experimental film, the course will provide an introduction to video art history and aesthetics and will examine installation based work, "expanded cinema," the gallery film, and recent work in digital media.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 2771. Producing. 4 Credit Hours.
Producing presents an overview of the processes of developing, line producing and distributing a documentary, fiction, or experimental media production. Emphasis is on projects produced independently, outside the commercial mainstream. Students will produce a comprehensive proposal for a viable film or media project.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Fields of study: Film and Media Arts.
Level Registration Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Levels: Undergraduate.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
(FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
AND (FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
AND ((FMA 1141|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 3085. Internship. 1 to 4 Credit Hour.
Students selected on the basis of special qualifications are assigned as interns on an unpaid basis with organizations professionally engaged in broadcasting and film. NOTE: Enrollment subject to availability of openings. Contact FMA's internship director.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 3241. BFA Junior Directing Projects. 4 Credit Hours.
BFA Junior Directing Projects is a required course for BFA Directing majors. Integrating and building upon what they have previously learned, it will take students through all the elements of the production process at a smaller scale than they will face in their senior BFA Directing projects. The course will include both fiction and non-fiction production. Topics will include developing scripts or documentary proposals, organizing and managing productions, narrative coverage and non-fiction camera work, directing actors and social actors, directing the camera, interview techniques and fieldwork and post-production. Course will culminate in each student producing a 3-7 minute short film.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Directing.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Sophomore 30 to 59 Credits, Junior 60 to 89 Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.
FMA 3242. Experimental Media Workshop. 4 Credit Hours.
An advanced workshop to develop projects in experimental, documentary, or narrative forms using portable video, TV studio, and editing facilities.
NOTE: This course is repeatable for credit. Prior to fall 2009, this course was called “Experimental TV.”

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3244. Lighting for Film and Video. 4 Credit Hours.
This workshop will explore the technical, aesthetic, and compositional aspects of lighting for cinematic, photographic, and electronic media for all students, as well as advanced issues of cinematography and synchronous sound for those students who wish to continue study of filmmaking. The course will analyze the evolution of lighting styles (such as classical Hollywood, neorealist, film noir, and expressionism) in fiction and non-fiction moviemaking. Each student will complete an individual and/or group portfolio of different lighting exercises. Students with an advanced interest in filmmaking will substitute camera and synchronous sound exercises for some of the lighting exercises.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR THTR 2511|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2244|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3245. Cinematography: Junior Projects. 4 Credit Hours.
Cinematography: Junior Projects is a suggested elective course for BA Cinematography Concentration candidates. Integrating and building upon what they have previously learned, this course is designed to help junior level students secure skills and experiences necessary to lead a production crew as a Director of Photography (DP). The course will explore production strategies for both fiction and non-fiction motion pictures. Topics include planning camera setups and coverage, advanced lighting design, light plots, creating a "look", field monitors and LUTs, high dynamic range RAW files, workflows, and crew organization. Designed to work in conjunction with the BFA Junior Directing course, this class will culminate with each cinematography student serving as the lead DP for a BFA Junior Directing Projects Film (FMA 3241).

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Cinematography.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3246. Making Documentaries. 4 Credit Hours.
An advanced workshop in the theory, practice, and ethics of documentary production. The workshop will feature exercises in oral history and interview techniques, camerawork, field-sound recording, and music research, specialized editing assignments, and a final project. These skills will be integrated with documentary screenings along with readings and discussion.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 2396|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 3247. Cross-Cultural Image Making. 3 Credit Hours.
This advanced production course will focus on cross-cultural image making. It is designed specifically to address the challenges of making films while immersed in a foreign culture and/or language. How do we make films about places that are unfamiliar to us often with limited resources and technology? How do time restraints such as being on the move and constantly changing locations affect the types of images selected and gathered? How does one assemble a future archive from which to draw at a future date in a short period of time? What happens to a culture when it is perceived as "other" and how does the lens of defamiliarization, dislocation, and disorientation translate into audiovisual production? What images, sounds and techniques represent the culture and history of a place? Which are site specific and which are transferable? What is the tension between the local and the global? At the end of the course, each student will be asked to produce their own short film based on their experiences and observations living away from home and out of their comfort zone. The course is open to majors and non-majors alike. However students without filmmaking experience must take the accompanying FMA 2245, Video Production for Non-Production Majors.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.
FMA 3341. Scene Analysis for Writers and Directors. 4 Credit Hours.
Analysis and exercises dealing with the conventional language of mainstream narrative film, including how this language, traditionally presented as the only way to organize narrative films, actually serves to circumscribe the kind of stories that may be told.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
- (FMA 2396|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
- AND (FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
- OR FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
- OR FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 3342. Serial Writing. 4 Credit Hours.
This is a writing workshop focusing on dramatic serial writing in which students learn to work in close collaboration with other class members. In preparation for the class, students will be required to read or view several dramatic serials as well as read several pilot scripts. The class itself will hear "pitches" for a serial, select one story, and then begin to develop it. The course is limited to BFA students with a concentration in Screenwriting.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Screenwriting.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Sophomore 30 to 59 Credits, Junior 60 to 89 Credits.

Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3343. Screenwriting II. 4 Credit Hours.
An advanced course concentrating on the preparation of a complete television, motion picture, or non-fiction script.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
- FMA 2396|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3361. Screen Performance. 3 Credit Hours.
This course is designed to develop performance skills before the camera. Actors are given experience in texts for commercials, soap operas, sit-coms, and film scenes, so that they are prepared for auditions in these areas. Individual and ensemble exercises may be on location or in the studio.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
- FMA 2241 to 2244| Required Courses:1|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
- OR FMA 2396|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
- OR FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
- OR THTR 1231|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3451. Animation Workshop. 4 Credit Hours.
A workshop on the art, techniques and concepts of animation, exploring several approaches from cards and cells to computer image making.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
- ((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
- AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
- AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
- OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
FMA 3452. New Technologies Lab. 4 Credit Hours.
A creative laboratory for exploring new media arts and interactive technologies for producing a variety of experimental, documentary, narrative and genre blended projects. Generating from classical traditions (film, video, and performing arts) to contemporary forms of interactive media: video games, blogs & YouTube, the projects range from the production of websites to interdisciplinary multi-media installations and performances. Successful NewTechLab productions have included individual and collaborative works by students from FMA, Art, Architecture, Dance, Music, Theater, Computer & Information Sciences. NOTE: Open to all FMA majors with suggested prerequisites that include: FMA 1451 (0196), FMA 2451 (0241), FMA 2451 (0245). Permission of the instructor required for students with equivalent prerequisites in other departments.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3453. Interdisciplinary Media Studio. 4 Credit Hours.
This production course provides the opportunity for exploring media arts in an interdisciplinary context. It is intended to introduce a broad interdisciplinary media toolbox: including developing competency in a range of technical skills, but more importantly, students are challenged to develop interdisciplinary conceptual skills. Starting with video and audio as the basis, students will follow a series of exercises that situate media in different cultural and disciplinary contexts: as installation with one or more screens (Media and Sculpture); as an element of performance (Media Projection Design for Theater and Dance); as narrative mapping (Internet-based Interactive Narrative with community partners); as location-based virtual architecture viewed through the smartphone or tablet (Virtual Public Art/Design for Civic Engagement); as engaged by an interactive sensor (Design for Physical Computing, in conjunction with Engineering).

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Media Arts.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Sophomore 30 to 59 Credits, Junior 60 to 89 Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3473. Moving Camera. 4 Credit Hours.
Moving Camera is a workshop course that explores the art and practice of moving camera media production. The course covers the range of techniques including handheld, dolly, jib, virtual/motion sensors and particularly focus on Steadicam operation. Class time will be spent on group discussion/exercises, lectures/screenings, lab instruction and critiquing work. Through a series of production projects, students will work through the aesthetics of moving camera and gain the technical and physical expertise necessary for successful projects. This course will also explore the theory and history of camera movement as well as blocking & directing techniques. Locative & mobile media projects will extend the work outside the classroom.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3551. Advanced Editing. 4 Credit Hours.
Screenings, discussions, critiques, and individual as well as collaborative workshop exercises build upon editing techniques and aesthetic concepts introduced in FMA 2551. Through projects, lectures and screenings students will be exposed to professional editing methods, approaches and techniques while completing individual projects in picture montage, sound design and digital effects.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2551|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3553. Color Correction. 4 Credit Hours.
This course is an introduction to the aesthetic considerations and technical aspects of color in modern post-production and cinematography. Color has a subconscious influence on emotion in storytelling. With the advent of modern digital cinema, every film and television production undergoes some level of color grading. Cinematographers must understand the process to maintain creative control of the images they produce. Editors must understand the process to perform basic color correction on low budget productions. This class is a combination of lecture and workshop with each student striving to efficiently navigate the art and practice of color correction.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2551|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.
FMA 3670. Topics in Media Culture. 4 Credit Hours.
An exploratory seminar with varying special topics, which might include Gender, Theories of Subjectivity, and Marginalization and Representation. NOTE: Course may be repeated.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently
OR CMST 2111|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3671. Theory and Practice of Media Culture. 4 Credit Hours.
The course will describe how cultural studies have grown out of film and media studies, combining intellectual and social history with changing representational practices. Students will analyze the dynamic relationship between ideas, socio-cultural, practices and technologies. NOTE: This course is for majors only. Permission of the FMA chair required for non-majors.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
(FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently
OR CMST 2111|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3677. American Film. 4 Credit Hours.
This course studies the American cinematic tradition from its inception in the 1890s to the present. We will examine the development of film as an aesthetic medium and a technical language, and we will connect the issues and ideas that films deal with to changes in American culture and society during this time period. We will be especially concerned with how films are used in the major value debates that shape America.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3680. Foreign Studies in FMA. 3 to 6 Credit Hours.
This course is a summer seminar in one of SCT's study abroad locations. It is only available during summers when an FMA faculty member is leading the seminar. For more information and an application, students should visit the SCT web site at www.temple.edu/sct. NOTE: FMA students may only count three credits towards the FMA major.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 3696. Writing Intensive Film Study. 4 Credit Hours.
A writing intensive seminar with varying special topics which might include criticism and analysis of East European Cinema, The Auteur Theory Re-examined, and Ideology and Hollywood Cinema of the ‘50s. NOTE: Course may be repeated.

Course Attributes: WI

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 3770. Topics in Film Study. 4 Credit Hours.
Lectures and screenings on a special topic arranged each semester. Topics may include Film and the City, War and Film, Black Women and Film, Utopias and Dystopias, Documentary Fiction, Terrorism and Film, Gay and Lesbian Identity on Film, Philadelphia Cinema History, and Horror. Please consult with the instructor.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently
OR CMST 2111|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.
FMA 3771. Exhibition and Distribution of Independent Media. 3 Credit Hours.
The objective of this course is to expose students to methods and approaches for exhibition and distribution of independent media. Students will investigate popular media outlets such as film/video festivals, microcinemas and internet exhibition possibilities, to name only a few. The course will serve dual functions in that it will prepare students to distribute their own work while also exposing them to industry opportunities in exhibition and distribution. FMA 3771 is considered an advanced studies course.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3772. Fundraising for Independent Media. 3 Credit Hours.
This course is a workshop class where students must come prepared with a project around which they will create a fundraising campaign. During the course of the semester students will be exposed to information on grant writing, non-profit and for-profit media entities and the legalities of media producing. At the conclusion of the course, students will have a full funding proposal ready for dissemination to various funding sources. FMA 3772 is considered an advanced studies course.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3773. Contemporary Screen Studies. 4 Credit Hours.
In this course, students will examine contemporary cinema, media, and film criticism, in order to articulate their own artistic, scholarly, and professional practice. Readings in film and media history, visual theory, and aesthetics will help make sense of the contemporary mediascape, with an emphasis on cinema and media arts work in the new millennium. The course will use theory and history to contextualize artistic and industrial practices from both "high" and "low" culture. Possible areas for exploration are digital cinema; "slow cinema"; multimedia installation; the gallery film; video game aesthetics; comics and film; episodic cinema; interactive, animated, and hybrid documentary; and long-form serial television.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Majors: Film and Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 3871. Film Theory. 4 Credit Hours.
This course introduces key ideas and debates in film theory. Covering work from classical film theory through the 1970s Screen theory to contemporary approaches, the course asks how best to understand film as an art form and social document. It will interrogate the nature of cinema as a medium and the direction of film in a digital age. Key ideas to include film aesthetics, signification, textuality, ideology, narration, political modernism, and feminist and postcolonial critique. Film screenings will illuminate concepts in the readings.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
(FMA 1172)|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR ENG 2711|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently)
AND (FMA 2675)|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2676|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2671|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2670|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 3670|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 3671|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 3677|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently

FMA 4240. Topics in Production. 4 Credit Hours.
A workshop in film, video, audio, or emerging new technologies. The course will address a particular production issue (an aspect of technology or an aesthetic approach) each time it is offered, such as production design, color correction, 3-D computer imagery, special effects, audio experimentation, video verité, and film/video diary.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Majors: Film and Media Arts.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.
FMA 4241. BFA Directing Projects I. 4 Credit Hours.
Advanced pre-production and production of film, high definition video, or emerging technologies with specific emphasis on producing an ambitious work of artistic and social consequence, with critiques and evaluations by faculty and visiting professionals. Intensive field and laboratory work leading towards a year-long individual or collaborative final project for exhibition. NOTE: First semester of a two-semester sequence (4241-4242).

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 2396|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 2551|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 4242. BFA Directing Projects II. 4 Credit Hours.
Continuation of FMA 4241 (0382) with an emphasis on completing the field production and post-production phases of a year-long project in film, high definition video or an emerging new technology. NOTE: Second semester of a two-semester sequence (4241-4242).

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 4241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4243. Film and Video Sound. 4 Credit Hours.
Theory and practice of sound as it relates to film and video production location recording techniques, wild sound pick-up, Foley and sound effects, sound sweetening, scoring for film, and sound mixing for film.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2243|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4245. Cinematography Master Class I. 4 Credit Hours.
An advanced production workshop that combines theory and practice in the making of personal films and crewing each other's productions in Super 16mm or High Definition 24P digital video, along with technical and aesthetic exercises deconstructing cinematographic/videographic moviemaking.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 3244|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4246. Cinematography Master Class II. 4 Credit Hours.
This course is a continuation of the fall semester as a practicum in completing projects in super 16mm and 24P digital advanced productions as well as introducing new exercises. This course will have professional visitors and will continue to deconstruct cinematography and various cinematic forms in the treatment of fiction/non-fiction portraiture in observational/direct cinema, avant-garde (burst and unconventional filming), and autobiographical styles of moviemaking.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 4245|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.
FMA 4248. Introduction to 3D: Modeling. 4 Credit Hours.
This course introduces the concepts and techniques of three-dimensional digital graphics, using Lightwave3D software. The first half of the semester introduces a broad palette of techniques and formal ideas, while the second half is spent on a major project of your own design. Previous experience with graphics or animation software is not required. The course offers a unique skill set and formal perspective. The course is open to juniors and seniors, including non-majors and upper-level students from other colleges, with the specific aim of fostering an interdisciplinary, collaborative workshop environment.

Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
((FMA 1171|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
AND FMA 1172|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently))
AND (FMA 1142|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1143|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently)

FMA 4249. Introduction to 3D: Animation. 4 Credit Hours.
This course introduces the concepts and techniques of three-dimensional digital imagery and motion graphics, using Lightwave3D software. The first half of the semester introduces a broad palette of techniques and formal ideas, while the second half is spent on a major project of your own design. The course offers a unique skill set and formal perspective for upper level students. Open to juniors and seniors, including non-majors and upper-level students from other colleges, with the specific aim of fostering an interdisciplinary, collaborative workshop environment.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 4250. Topics in Production. 4 Credit Hours.
A workshop with a changeable technological or artistic topic in film or video post-production, multimedia, or 3-D computer animation.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Majors: Film and Media Arts.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 4251. Producing Master Class I. 4 Credit Hours.
Producing Master Class I is the first semester in the year-long capstone experience of the BA degree in Producing. Students will apply knowledge they have learned about producing independent film work by serving as a lead producer for a BFA directing project. The course will be structured as a workshop and will be coordinated with the capstone courses for the BFA in Directing, BA in Cinematography and BA in Post Production. This capstone course will give students a comprehensive experience in producing that will prepare them to begin a career in industry and independent film producing.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Producing.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 4252. Producing Master Class II. 4 Credit Hours.
Producing Master Class II is the second semester in the year-long capstone experience of the BA degree in Producing. Producing students will serve as the hub around which the director, cinematographer and editor will collaborate, as they guide their directing project through production, post-production and strategizing audience outreach and distribution.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Producing.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 4251|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently.
FMA 4253. Post Production Master Class I. 4 Credit Hours.
Master Class I is the first semester in the year-long capstone experience within the undergraduate Post Production concentration. Students will apply the techniques and theory they have learned in previous courses by serving as an editor and post supervisor for a BFA Directing project. The first semester will cover best practices for digital convergence, advanced HD workflow and advanced audio for narrative short filmmaking.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Post Production.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 4254. Post Production Master Class II. 4 Credit Hours.
Master Class II is the second part in the year-long capstone experience within the undergraduate Post Production concentration. Crews collaborate from start to finish on a designated narrative short film via on-set technical roles and transition into post production positions.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Post Production.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 4253|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4282. Special Projects. 1 to 4 Credit Hour.
Individual projects proposed by advanced students. NOTE: Candidates submit a detailed project plan on prescribed form before registration.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 4341. Screen Directing. 4 Credit Hours.
Theories of directing, dramatic form, and acting are examined through lectures, demonstrations, readings, and applied exercises to establish a theoretical and practical foundation in film and television directing.

Department Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Departments: CA:Film & Media Arts.
Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Fields of study: Film and Media Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2241|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2242|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4342. BFA Screenwriting Projects I. 4 Credit Hours.
The first half of the senior year capstone in the BFA in Screenwriting. Students will integrate in practice everything they have learned about film, screenwriting and story by developing the first draft of a feature-length screenplay or television serial pilot and bible. The course will be structured as a workshop and will present students with the opportunity to further hone their critical skills and introduce them to the discipline of the writer's life.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Screenwriting.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.
FMA 4343. BFA Screenwriting Projects II. 4 Credit Hours.
The second half of the senior year capstone in the BFA in Screenwriting. Students will focus on rewriting as an essential part of the writing process, as they rewrite and polish the first drafts of their feature scripts or television serial plot and bible developed in Screenwriting Master Class I. They will be expected to cultivate their ability to give and receive a high level of criticism.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Screenwriting.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 4342|Minimum Grade of C-|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4440. Topics in Production. 4 Credit Hours.
A workshop in film, video, audio, or emerging new technologies. The course will address a particular production issue (an aspect of technology or an aesthetic approach) each time it is offered, such as color correction, 3-D computer animation, special effects, digital audio applications, and multimedia.

Repeatability: This course may be repeated for additional credit.

FMA 4441. Physical Computing. 4 Credit Hours.
Physical Computing is a studio class in which students build electronic interfaces for interactive media projection and exhibition. This class mingles media-making with simple engineering, developing students’ skills in designing new ways to access and experience video and audio media.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

Pre-requisites:
FMA 2451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently
OR FMA 1451|Minimum Grade of C|May not be taken concurrently.

FMA 4442. BFA Media Arts Project I. 4 Credit Hours.
This course is the first part of the two semester Senior Capstone in the Media Arts BFA. In this production course, students will develop a substantial interdisciplinary media arts project in dialogue with BFA cohort and faculty. They will create prototypes of proposed projects with an interdisciplinary team of collaborators from the Media Arts BFA and relevant programs in parallel arts, humanities and sciences disciplines. The development of the prototype projects will engage interdisciplinary media arts skills and concepts mastered in the sophomore and junior years of the BFA.

Field of Study Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Concentrations: Media Arts.
Class Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Classes: Junior 60 to 89 Credits, Senior 90 to 119 Credits, Senior/Fifth Year 120+ Credits.
Degree Restrictions: Must be enrolled in one of the following Degrees: Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Repeatability: This course may not be repeated for additional credits.

FMA 4443. BFA Media Arts Project II. 4 Credit Hours.
This course is the second part of the two semester Senior Capstone in the Media Arts BFA. In this production course, students will continue to develop a substantial interdisciplinary media arts project in dialogue with BFA cohort and faculty. Each student will use the project prototype created in the fall Media Arts Project I course as a blueprint for the realization of the final capstone project. Students will continue to work with the interdisciplinary team of collaborators they put together during the first semester of the course to complete their media arts project, including the finalizing, testing and development of hardware, software, content, implementation and documentation.
