Asian Law LLM

BEASLEY SCHOOL OF LAW

About the Program

Temple Law has always taken great pride in providing an excellent legal education that prepares its graduates for the challenges they will meet in practice. Globalization has significantly changed the nature of these challenges. In the decade that U.S. trade across the Pacific surpassed that across the Atlantic, clear recognition arose in the legal profession that Asia is an area of practice in which lawyers should receive special training. The growing number of commercial Asia-U.S. transactions continues to flame both domestic and foreign demand for U.S. lawyers who specialize in Asian law. While this demand continues and will likely grow, only a limited number of academic programs in the United States exist that are specifically designed to create such specialists.

This program is designed primarily for those who hold a Juris Doctor (JD) degree, potential JD students, and lawyers from foreign common law jurisdictions who would use Temple's curricular strengths and existing programs as a bridge to expand their careers to Asia, the most dynamic region in the 21st-century world.

The Beasley School of Law has long regarded its international law programs as a core center of excellence. Indeed, our expertise in international law generally is reflected in our strong national ranking in that area. Our substantive depth and our existing physical presence in the capitals of the nations with the three largest economies in Asia make us the program of choice for those wishing to become Asian law specialists. Our program is unique in requiring candidates to spend a semester at a law school program in Asia, ensuring that graduates of the program are exposed not just to substantive aspects of the law, but to the almost equally important nuances of the legal, economic and social culture from which those laws spring.

Our tenured faculty specialize in Chinese Law, Japanese Law, and legal issues in Asia. Our roots run deep in legal education in Asia. In 1994, we became the only U.S. law school to offer a full semester of JD study and a full academic year for LLM students in Asia at Temple University's Japan campus in Tokyo. In 1999, the Beasley School of Law expanded into China in a groundbreaking program to train Chinese lawyers, judges and professors. In addition, we send students every fall to study Chinese Law in Tsinghua University's LLM in Chinese Law program for non-Chinese students. In 2011, Temple entered into an exchange partnership with Jindal Global University Law School in National Capital Region (NCR) of Delhi, India.

Time Limit for Degree Completion: 4 years, although full-time students typically complete the LLM program in one academic year

Campus Location: Main campus in Philadelphia and abroad in Beijing, China; Delhi, India; or Tokyo, Japan

Full-Time/Part-Time Status: The degree program can be completed on a full- or part-time basis.

Interdisciplinary Study: Students may pursue the Asian Law LLM on its own or in conjunction with the JD. A Temple JD student may qualify for entry into the LLM program before graduation, and earn up to half of the required 24 credits for the LLM while still a JD student. The remaining credits required for the LLM degree can then be completed in one additional full-time semester or several part-time semesters in Philadelphia, China, India or Japan after satisfying the JD requirements. Current Temple JD students who enter the JD/LLM program directly after earning a JD automatically have up to six credits of eligible courses in a Temple program applied toward the LLM in Asian Law. For each additional credit earned beyond the minimum number of credits required to earn the JD degree, a Temple JD/LLM student can apply one more credit of international and comparative law coursework toward the LLM in Asian Law, up to a maximum of 12 credits.

Job Prospects: Graduates may have an advantage in procuring jobs that require Asia-focused international law study and experience.

Non-Matriculated Student Policy: Students must be matriculated in the program to take courses.

Financing Opportunities: The Asian Law LLM degree program does not have a scholarship program, but students may explore financial aid opportunities commonly available to JD students. Tuition and cost information is available at https://law.temple.edu/about/tuition/. For financial aid information, visit https://law.temple.edu/resources/financial-aid/graduate-international/.

Admission Requirements and Deadlines

Application Deadline:

Fall: June 1 Spring: November 1

Applicants are admitted on a rolling basis and are encouraged to apply as early as possible while space is available in the program. Payment of the $50 application fee may be remitted directly to Temple Law by check or money order payable to "Temple University." The application fee is waived for current Temple students.

APPLY ONLINE to this program.

Letters of Reference:

Number Required: 1

From Whom: The reference letter may be written by a professor or employment supervisor and should candidly evaluate the applicant's academic abilities and/or professional skills. Relevant work experience may also be considered evidence of potential for graduate study.

Degree Required for Admission Consideration: It is expected that applicants hold a Juris Doctor or equivalent first degree in law from an English common law country. Official law transcripts must be submitted either electronically or as hard copy received in a sealed envelope from the issuing institution, with English translation if needed.

Statement of Goals: Outline your interest in the program in a maximum of 1,000 words. Applicants should explain their interest in graduate study in Asian law, as well as any other factors the admissions committee should take into consideration when evaluating their application. The statement should demonstrate your organizational, analytical and writing skills. Thus, applicants should invest appropriate time and effort in preparing this statement. The personal statement is carefully evaluated by the admissions committee. While proficiency in an Asian language is preferred, it is not required.

Resume: Current resume or CV is required.

- Tsinghua is a well-recognized Chinese university with a large law school that primarily enrolls domestic Chinese students. Asian Law LLM students with sufficient language proficiency may petition to take courses taught in Chinese to count toward the degree.
- Jindal's law school primarily enrolls domestic Indian students earning their LLB, a graduate law degree equivalent to the JD in the United States. While the courses available to Asian Law LLM students do not explicitly include the word "Indian" in their titles, they do indeed focus on Indian law.
- Courses identified for TUJ are commonly taught in Tokyo. JUDO J105 is the only course on the list that is not offered in English.
- JUDO J104 and JUDO J105 are not offered on Temple University's Main campus.
