

International Students

Students come to Temple from all over the world. In fact, we have students from more than 100 countries. You're considered an international student if you hold, or will need to obtain, a non-immigrant visa, including a student visa (F-1), or an exchange visitor visa (J-1).

To apply to Temple, use the Common Application. For additional information, see International Students admissions.

If you require a student visa, please review the information for incoming students and contact International Student and Scholar Services with any questions.
