Organizations increasingly are hiring well-trained quality HR professionals to recruit, develop, manage, and retain their most valuable business asset—human talent. The Fox Human Resource Management (HRM) major prepares students for careers in human resource (HR) management and recognizes the necessity of creating synergies between the human and business sides to enhance an organization’s productivity, reputation, and sustainable profits. The Fox HRM major prepares graduates to be leaders and specialists in the areas of 1) talent recruitment and retention, 2) training and development, 3) compensation and benefits, 4) performance management, 5) labor relations and 6) compliance with local, state and federal employment laws and policies.

Typical first jobs for Human Resource Management majors include HR generalist, corporate recruiter, employee relations specialist, compensation analyst, corporate trainer, and management trainee. Typical jobs held five to ten years out include HR director, staffing manager, compensation manager, training manager, and employee relations director.

Professional Development Program

One of the benefits of being an HRM major is the opportunity to join the student chapter of the Society of Human Resource Management (TUSHRM). TUSHRM is a 100% participative working organization. All members have a role in creating, managing and attending activities that build relationships with HR professionals, staff various community service efforts, provide mentoring opportunities and promote professional development programming. The TUSHRM office is located in Alter Hall 333C. For more information, contact Dr. Debra Casey at 215-204-4130 or debra.casey@temple.edu.

In addition to TUSHRM, Fox HRM also invites all majors to join our student chapters of Net Impact and Student Professional Sales Organizations (PSO). For information on Net Impact, focused on strengthening leaders to use the power of business for positive social, environmental, and economic impact, contact faculty advisor Lynne Andersson at 215-204-5088 or landerss@temple.edu, or visit their web site. For more information on PSO, visit www.temple-pso.com/ or contact faculty advisor Tony Petrucci at 215-204-8138 or petrucci@temple.edu.

HRM Majors are required to participate in the Fox Leadership Development Program (FLDP). In addition, students are encouraged to earn the HRM Key Achievement Award. Though not required, completing the HRM Key Achievement Award activities will allow students to enhance their knowledge of the field, develop HR-related skills, and establish professional relationships with HR practitioners. For more information, please go to the TUSHRM web site.

Online BBA Program

The Human Resource Management major is available as an online BBA degree completion program designed for new and continuing students. Please visit the Online BBA web site for program and admission information.

Minors & Certificates

Organizational Leadership Minor

Open to Fox School of Business and Management students (except Business Management majors) and students in the School of Sport, Tourism and Hospitality Management.

The four courses comprising the Organizational Leadership Minor enhance skills necessary for organizational leadership and advancement, including (1) organizational communication and influence, (2) conflict management and negotiation, (3) team-building and performance management, and (4) critical thinking and problem-solving. For years, corporate executives and numerous studies acknowledge business school graduates need skills beyond their technical competence as they step into leadership roles. Organizational Leadership Minor graduates are better able to think and act in ways that reflect sophisticated interpersonal to technical competencies that benefit the interests of multiple organizational stakeholders.

Requirements for this minor must be completed prior to graduation. Courses cannot be used to meet minor requirements if already used to meet the requirements for a major or a different minor or certificate.
Legal Studies Minor for Human Resource Managers

Open to Human Resource Management majors only.

The legal aspects of managing people at all levels of business and nonprofit organizations manifest in a wide variety of human resources policies and decisions as well as the ramifications of decisions about the business itself. Compliance with local, state and federal laws and regulations creates the need for HR practitioners to consider the legal ramifications of hiring, training, coaching, disciplining and terminating individual employees. Larger organizational decisions such as layoffs, restructuring, outsourcing, benefits and retirement must also be made in compliance with the law. The Legal Studies minor develops skills in students to read cases and statutes, perform legal research, make legal arguments, and identify the legal issues that will impact business decisions.

Requirements for this minor must be completed prior to graduation. Courses cannot be used to meet minor requirements if already used to meet the requirements for a major or a different minor.

Human Resource Minor for Legal Studies

Open to Legal Studies majors only.

Law permeates most aspects of business, and few decisions lack legal repercussions. In a business setting, the law regulates who businesses can hire and fire, liability for injury on business premises, and labor-management relations. On the other hand, organizations are hiring non-law professionals to manage the most important asset of the business, its human talent. Those employees are usually trained in human resource management. In practice, lawyers and human resource managers work hand-in-hand to deal with employee problems and statutory regulations related to compliance issues. A major in law with a minor in human resource management is a natural fit as students learn the legal repercussions of business decisions while gaining practical exposure to the human management side of those legal decisions.

Requirements for this minor must be completed prior to graduation. Courses cannot be used to meet minor requirements if already used to meet the requirements for a major or a different minor.

Corporate Social Responsibility Minor

Open to business or non-business students.

The Corporate Social Responsibility Minor is for students who want to understand and be part of a growing movement to use business as a force for social and environmental good. The courses in the minor emphasize that the traditional stockholder-primacy model of business is insufficient and even harmful for communities and our ecosystem and that a multi-stakeholder model of business is more commensurate with societal expectations that businesses should contribute to solving the large social and environmental problems of our day. Businesses today are setting goals and measuring impact in terms of their effects on people and the planet as well as profit, and the minor encourages students to explore the ways that they might contribute in their careers to this emerging Triple Bottom Line.

Requirements for this minor must be completed prior to graduation. Courses cannot be used to meet minor requirements if already used to meet the requirements for a major or a different minor.

Sales Minor

The Sales minor is open to business students only.

Augment your business degree with skills and expertise in sales, persuasion, negotiation, marketing, and customer relationship management. Applicable to any business major, skills and learning from the Sales minor align with personalized career strategies and allow Fox students to differentiate themselves in a distinctive and relevant way to prospective employers.

Requirements for this minor must be completed prior to graduation. Courses cannot be used to meet minor requirements if already used to meet the requirements for a major or a different minor.

RMI & HRM Focus

The Department of Risk, Insurance and Healthcare Management offers Risk Management and Insurance (RMI) courses that complement the Department of Human Resource Management's (HRM) courses for students interested in a career in employee benefits and/or human resource management. These courses allow students to broaden their career options by taking advantage of the cross-training offered by these departments.

- RMI major with a HRM focus: Students take HRM 2501 and HRM 3511
